This may sound like blowing my own trumpet but it's meant to blow the trumpet of our resident Poet, Carol Alcorn, who penned this verse after our Pandemic Camino

Now that the Church has re-opened, there's something I'd like to say
Pat, you have brought us healing, with faith and love each day.
Your Mass on the Webcam was fruitful, you reached out to all of the world,
The community will ever be grateful, as the pandemic virus unfurled.

The comments came in abundance, with emoji's of heartfelt fun.
The parishioners watched in amazement, as the prayed, 'Thy Kingdom come'.
The sound of Pat's ukulele, blended well with his dulcet voice
His meditation and dedication, sending messages of rejoice.

The Church interior was glowing, with colours blue and white
The sun streamed through the windows, letting in God's heavenly light.
Let's raise our hopes to the future, and put troubled times to the past,
We value our health and wisdom and trust that the Covid won't last.

Three long months in Lockdown, put our people under strain,
We offered prayers for our loved ones, those who passed and those in pain.
We honour our priests and clergy, Doctors and nurses who cared,
Those who work on the frontline
Wearing masks and visors so rare

We all give thanks to Roseleen McShane,
For her special gift to us.
The Rosary sheer offered daily, for at least a hundred days plus.
On behalf of our community and friends from far off shores
Thanks for the prayers and the memories
We will cherish for ever more
Lest we Forget,
Carol Alcorn
